Celebrations!

Hello Laura,

There is much to celebrate this month. First, thank you to all who voted in the March local elections. As part of the town budget, our budget passed, and we appreciate your support!

Second, we celebrate National Poetry Month with not one, but two, poetry programs. Read on for all the details. Even if you think you're not a "poetry person," hearing someone recite poems aloud is a different experience than reading poems in school.

And third, we celebrate National Library Week, April 23 - 29, as a time to celebrate libraries, library workers' contributions and promote library use and support. The theme, "There's More to the Story," illustrates that in addition to books, libraries offer much more. We lend items such as hiking kits, preschool learning bags, a telescope, and Kill-a-Watt energy monitors. We offer programs that bring our community together for entertainment, education, and connection through book clubs, Preschool Story Time, movie nights, discussion groups, and lectures. And library infrastructure advances the Bethlehem community, providing internet and technology access, literacy skills, and support for businesses and job seekers.

The library is for everyone. If you haven't stopped by in a while, we'd love to see you again!

Have a good day,

Laura
