Summer Begins!

Hello Laura,

While many of you are winding down the school year and school activities, the library is gearing up for our busy season - Summer Reading! Our goals for these programs are two-fold: one, to encourage leisure reading because it's fun and you have time to do it; and two, for children, to keep them reading to combat "summer slide" so they are ready for school in the fall. We have programs for school-age through adult, so everyone can enjoy reading this summer. Play Bingo starting June 24th, and you could win cool prizes!

Our Summer Reading kick-off is Tuesday, June 25th 11am at the Colonial Theater (many thanks to them for letting us use their stage). Seeing Treasure Island is a great way to start our adventure theme. This program is possible due to the generosity of our Friends group. Please support them at the Snack Shack during the gazebo concerts this summer.

While weekly kids' programs are on hiatus for the summer, adult programs - weekly Let's Talk and monthly book discussions continue. As do our monthly Simple Living programs. This month we'll be learning to make jam. I hope you can join us.

Have a good day,

Laura

Simple Living: Intro to Canning

Friday, June 14th 11:30am in the Meeting Room

Sean O'Brien from the UNH Extension Education Center will teach the basics of water-bath canning by going through the steps of making jam. Water-bath canning is used to preserve high acid foods, such as jams, pickles, and some tomatoes. Using tested recipes and procedures protects you and your family from harmful bacteria. Canning keeps your food shelf-stable, so you can enjoy your favorite seasonal foods all year round.

Do you already can? Bring your questions and ask an expert.

This is a free program, open to all. Since everyone who attends will go home with jam, reservations are required. Please contact the library at 603-869-2409 or email lclerkin@bethlehemlibrary to reserve your seat.

This program is generously sponsored by The Friends of Bethlehem Public Library
