The Leaves are Falling

Hello Laura,

Thank you to everyone who got a new library card or renewed their card in September. A young patron won our $75 TicketMaster gift certificate just for signing up. Perhaps they will see some football, hockey, or a good music concert.

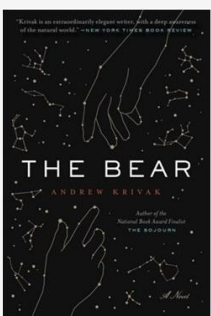

The leaves are falling and our good weather is coming to an end. It's a great time to move into cool weather activities, like coming to library programs. We have several fall programs this month. We hope to see you at one or all of them.

Have a good day,

Laura

The Big Read Programs Continue

Our library is participating in a state-wide read of The Bear by NH author Andrew Krivak. The Big Read is a program of the National Endowment for the Arts in partnership with Arts Midwest, and is being coordinated by NH Humanities.

A cautionary tale of human fragility, of love and loss, The Bear is a stunning tribute to the beauty of nature's dominion and explores powerful themes about the importance of intergenerational storytelling, our complicated relationship with the environment, and how to prepare for an unknown future. Krivak lives in Jaffrey, New Hampshire, in the shadow of Mount Monadnock, which inspired much of the landscape in

Ray Bradbury

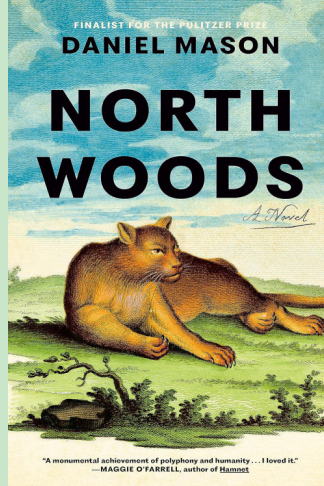

Ray Bradbury wrote the first draft of his famous work that satirizes book censorship, Fahrenheit 451, in nine days at UCLA's Powell Library, where typewriters could be rented for ten cents an hour. Ironical as it may seem given the role that book burning plays in the novel itself, Fahrenheit 451 has faced multiple censorship and banning attempts throughout the years. (Banned Books Project)

Banned Books Week highlights the value of free and open access to information and brings together the entire book community — librarians, educators, authors, publishers, booksellers, and readers of all types — in shared support of the freedom to seek and to express ideas. (bannedbooksweek.org)
